

Three Day Transformational Coaching Workshop

2021
Bath, 8-10 December

As before, this course is offered for those who are experienced coaches, and who would like to look in depth at their practice, particularly in supporting those wanting to create significant change in their lives and organisations. The course is roughly 50% input of ideas about how to create such transformational change and 50% practice of these ideas in coaching trios and other experiential learning.

The content will cover:

- The foundations of Transformational Coaching
- The importance and process of un-learning
- Ways of using our 'four brains' as action logics
- Understanding habit: how to establish it and how to create new habits
- Exploring the Four Levels of Engagement at a deep level
- Creating a transformational use of CLEAR model
- Exploring the power and purpose of somatic coaching
- Deepening our understanding of the Sentic States.

As participants are experienced, this course will provide an unusual opportunity for high level CPD for your professional coaching practice. It will include new material from Nick Smith's research for the book he is writing on the subject.

We will make a decision in July 2021 whether to run the workshop face to face or virtually in July 2021. Our hope is to run the course at Barrow Castle next year.
